BIOGRAPHICAL SUMMARY OF NOMINEE

(About a hundred words outlining career, and what I will bring to the Society)

I have a lifelong passion for modern architecture with over twenty years' experience working with architects and championing good design. Having studied history of architecture for my degree, I worked at the Richard Rogers Partnership and then moved to the RIBA as Director for the Yorkshire Region and now as Head of International Membership Experience.

I bring significant expertise in engagement strategies, membership campaigns, awards and partnership working with diverse stakeholder groups in the built environment for profile raising and recruitment and retention. I can also bring a huge network of contacts both in the UK and Internationally and commercial experience of securing sponsorship, winning bids and securing contracts to fund projects.

The protection and conversation of modern buildings is critical from a heritage perspective and as part of the battle against climate change. C20 has opportunities to grow the profile of the society and reach new audiences by advocating for re-invention and re-use of modern buildings and I am keen to bring my skills and energy to support this important work.
